Report description:

Singapore's personal accessories market experienced growth in both retail volume and current value terms in 2024. The latter was driven by significant price increases across the sector, along with the recently implemented Goods and Services Tax (GST) hike, from 8% to 9%. Despite the additional tax burden, which contributed to the rising cost of living, consumer confidence has been gradually rebounding, encouraging continued investment in personal accessories. Though caution in spending remains p...
