Report description:

Following consecutive price increases in the previous two years, in 2024 prices of home care products started to drop. While food prices remained subject to increases, non-food prices stabilised in 2024. For instance, in discretionary categories such as specialised laundry detergents and laundry aids companies started to drop their prices as part of efforts to drive volume growth. In general, prices remained higher versus 2022 but stabilised at lower levels than 2023. The key trend influencing d...
