Report description:

Home care in Vietnam saw steady retail volume and current value growth throughout the review period, including 2024, due to rising incomes, urbanisation, and a strong focus on hygiene. According to the government, in 2024 Vietnam's average inflation rate met the target of remaining below 4.5%, and this drove rising disposable incomes and maintained consumers' purchasing power. Many people therefore looked for higher quality, more effective, and more convenient products.

Euromonitor International's Home Care in Vietnam market report offers a comprehensive guide to the size and shape of the market at a national level.
