Report description:

Home insecticides in Morocco remained on an upward trajectory in terms of retail volume and value sales in 2024. Morocco experienced a very hot climate in the second half of the review period. Long summers ran from May to October, with warm temperatures throughout the year. Hot weather often speeds up the cockroach reproduction cycle, while high temperatures provide fertile conditions for mosquitoes and other pests. Thus, the use of insecticides is perceived as essential, and they are a regular...
