Report description:

In 2024, the demand for store cards in South Africa continued to rise as local consumers' disposable income weakened due to the higher cost of living. However, such demand increasingly faced lower approval rates due to retailers adopting a more restrictive credit policy to reduce exposure to bad debt and improve their cash flow management. A prominent example is Mr Price reporting a 32% increase in demand for new accounts in its half-year 2024 report, with only a 19% approval rate. Similarly, Th...
