Rise in Construction Activities is Propelling the Market Growth

The market for carpets and rugs in new construction and renovation activities is expected to experience substantial growth in the coming years. This is largely due to the increased spending on residential construction, which has led to a higher demand for carpet tiles in the residential sector. Moreover, these residential projects often involve the removal of old or outdated carpets and rugs, which prompts homeowners to install new ones. The installation of new carpeting not only enhances the appearance of a home but also increases its value. Carpets and rugs are commonly chosen for newly constructed houses due to their affordability, easy installation process, and appealing aesthetics. Factors such as rising per capita income, low-interest rates, and an influx of immigrants are expected to drive strong growth in residential construction. Moreover, private and public commercial segments are witnessing significant growth in the carpet and rug market, as many private players are expanding their properties and investing in renovation activities. Overall, the global carpet and rugs market is expected to thrive during the forecast period, thanks to the continuous growth of the construction industry and the various applications of carpet and rugs in flooring and wall decoration.
