Report description:

The Indian Residential Kitchen Hobs Market size is estimated at USD 2.03 billion in 2025, and is expected to reach USD 2.76 billion by 2030, at a CAGR of 6.34% during the forecast period (2025-2030).

A kitchen hob, also known as a stovetop or cooktop, is a fundamental appliance for cooking. It typically incorporates gas burners or heating elements. While prevalent in residential kitchens, hobs are equally vital in commercial establishments such as restaurants and hotels. The Indian market for residential kitchen hobs has experienced a consistent upswing, driven by urbanization, increasing incomes, and changing lifestyles. As urbanization progresses, there is a growing appetite for compact, efficient kitchen appliances. Additionally, the contemporary preference for open kitchen layouts has heightened the demand for visually appealing hobs that seamlessly integrate with the overall design.

The Indian residential kitchen hobs market is bolstered by several factors. These include a heightened emphasis on energy efficiency and sustainability, the introduction of advanced models by leading players, and a rising preference for modular kitchens in residential spaces. Technological advancements have played a pivotal role in shaping the kitchen hob landscape. Manufacturers are incorporating touch controls, automatic ignition, safety sensors, and energy-efficient designs to meet evolving consumer preferences. Notably, smart hobs with features like Wi-Fi connectivity and remote control are gaining popularity among tech-savvy consumers. Manufacturers are expected to continue innovating, introducing new features and designs to cater to a broad spectrum of consumer needs, thereby driving further market expansion. Moreover, the Indian residential kitchen hobs market is set for sustained growth, given its strong presence in both online and offline sales channels. This trajectory is further reinforced by the increasing demand for advanced and modular kitchen hobs.

The Surge in Construction Projects is Fueling Market Growth

Kitchen hobs, a staple in Indian households, are either integrated into the kitchen or used as standalone units. With India witnessing a surge in construction activities of villas and luxury apartments and renovation of existing kitchens, driven by rapid urbanization and disposable income, the market for kitchen hobs is poised for steady growth in the coming years. The uptick in construction projects, fueled by increased investments in urbanization and the rising living standards of consumers, is supported by their increasing disposable income levels. Increasing urbanization is fueling a surge in demand for luxury and premium apartments, creating a favorable landscape for the premium kitchen appliances market. Furthermore, the enhanced features of hobs, including heightened reliability, sustainability, and energy efficiency, are fueling the shift from traditional gas stoves to hobs.

Rising Urbanization Fuels Market Growth

The market's expansion is fueled by urbanization, which is driving the rise of a burgeoning middle class and demand for convenience amid busy urban lifestyles. The rising popularity of modular kitchen appliances in urban and semi-urban regions is a significant factor contributing to this expansion. Notably, urban markets, particularly in high-tier cities, show a higher demand for kitchen hobs. The growth of the kitchen hobs market is also attributed to urbanization and product advancements. Technological strides, coupled with the widespread use of smart devices, have led to the introduction of smart kitchen appliances featuring wireless connectivity. These appliances, often found in smart homes, can be remotely controlled via wireless, internet, or Bluetooth-enabled devices. Additionally, the market is buoyed by rising health consciousness, especially among urban and millennial demographics, driving the demand for kitchen appliances that facilitate hygienic and oil/smoke-free cooking conditions.

Indian Residential Kitchen Hobs Industry Overview

The Indian residential kitchen hobs market is fragmented, with several local and global players. Manufacturers implement cost-based pricing and innovation tactics in the market. They are developing products that incorporate cutting-edge technologies to enhance the convenience and comfort of customers. Research and development expenditures are increasing to meet the growing needs of tech-savvy consumers in the market. Manufacturers are striving to provide top-notch technological advancements to meet their demands. Some major players in the market include Glen Appliances, iBELL, Whirlpool, Prestige, and Hindware Appliances.
