Key Highlights

Sodra Skogsägarna ekonomisk förening is a Swedish forest owners association that specializes in forestry management, timber sales, and wood processing. Established in 1938, the company plays a crucial role in Sweden's forestry industry by supporting more than 50,000 private forest owners in managing their forests sustainably and profitably. With its headquarters in Vaxjö, Kronoberg County, Sweden, the company operates extensively across Sweden, particularly in regions rich in forest resources.

The company is involved in multiple business segments, including forestry services, wood product manufacturing, and pulp production. Sodra provides its members with expert guidance on sustainable forest management, ensuring responsible harvesting and reforestation practices. It also processes timber into high-quality wood products, such as sawn timber and engineered wood, for both domestic and international markets. Additionally, the company produces pulp for paper and textile industries, reinforcing its position as a leading player in the bioeconomy.

Sodra is deeply committed to environmental sustainability and innovation, continuously investing in renewable materials and eco-friendly production methods. Through its operations, the company not only supports the economic growth of forest owners but also contributes to the global transition towards sustainable forestry and bio-based industries. With a strong focus on research and development, Sodra ensures that its business practices align with modern environmental standards, making it a leader in Sweden's forestry sector.
