Key Highlights

Anglian Water Group Limited, incorporated on 12 February 2002, is a leading provider of water and wastewater services in the United Kingdom. Headquartered in Huntingdon, England, the company plays a vital role in the UK's water utility sector, supplying clean water and managing wastewater treatment for millions of domestic, commercial, and industrial customers. Its operations are primarily concentrated in the East of England, covering counties such as Norfolk, Suffolk, Cambridgeshire, and Lincolnshire-one of the driest yet fastest-growing regions in the UK.

Operating within the regulated utilities sector, Anglian Water is responsible for managing more than 38,000 kilometers of water mains and over 76,000 kilometers of sewers. The company focuses heavily on sustainability, environmental stewardship, and long-term water resource management. It is recognized for its pioneering initiatives in climate resilience and digital innovation, including smart metering and leak detection technologies.

Although Anglian Water does not operate internationally, its influence extends across Europe through collaborations and benchmarking within the broader water industry. As a key player in the UK water sector, Anglian Water remains committed to delivering reliable, sustainable, and affordable water services while meeting regulatory standards and customer expectations.
