Summary:

The report discusses a 360 analysis of Koninklijke Philips N.V. It covers various aspects of Koninklijke Philips N.V., including products, business segments, history, distributors, and financial and strategic development.

Koninklijke Philips N.V., also known as Royal Philips, was established in 1891 by Frederik Philips and his son Gerard Philips in the Netherlands. The core of the company's work culture is its 130-year heritage of ground-breaking innovation to meet global health challenges. The company IP portfolio consists of 50,500 approx. patent rights, 150,000 design rights, 30,500 trademarks and 3,200 domain names. Koninklijke Philips N.V. is the parent company of The Philips Group. Its operating model allows end-to-end businesses to have a single responsibility, which enables the company to be more agile in creating and driving value with sustainable impact.

Philips operates through four major segments: diagnosis and treatment, connected care, personal health, and others (which includes six major businesses). The company's main motto is diversification from consumer products to the healthcare industry through innovation, design and sustainability. It operates across oceans and is organized into three regions: North America, Greater China, and the international region (Europe and the Growth regions). However, for financial calculation purposes, it is organized into four regions: Western Europe, North America, Other mature geographies and Growth geographies.
