Report description:

The global rosemary aromatic water market is being driven by the growing demand for natural products over synthetic ones. Aided by technological advancements and product diversification, the rosemary extract market is expected to witness a healthy growth in the forecast period of 2025-2034, growing at a CAGR of 4.80%.

Multifunctional Properties of Rosemary Aromatic Water and its Wide Applications to Boost the Market Growth

Due to its antioxidant and anti-bacterial nature, rosemary aromatic water is widely used in the cosmetic industry as a moisturiser, toner, and cleansing agent for the skin. It is added to various creams and lotions as a skincare agent and is also used as an herbal hair rinse. In the healthcare industry, it serves as an appetite stimulator and is added to various nutritional supplements. It is also used as a flavouring agent in the food and beverage industry. This is significantly contributing to the growth of the rosemary aromatic water industry globally.

Region-wise, Europe is one of the leading producers and consumers of the rosemary aromatic water and occupies a significant share in the industry. The growth can be attributed to the increased per capita expenditure on cosmetic products in the region and the growing shift towards natural ingredients. The other significant regions for rosemary aromatic water include North America and the Asia Pacific.

Rosemary Aromatic Water: Market Segmentation

Aromatic water, also known as floral water or hydrolat, forms a part of the distillation process carried out to obtain essential oils. It is considered an excellent soothing agent for the skin as it contains all the active principles and water-soluble molecules of the herb, which is utilised to prepare an essential oil. Rosemary aromatic water is a good astringent and is particularly suitable for elderly people. It is effective in stimulating the appetite and improves circulation.

Growing Health Awareness and Rising Demand for Natural Products to Bolster the Growth of the Rosemary Aromatic Water Industry

The rising awareness regarding the harmful effects of synthetic chemicals on health is driving the demand for natural products among consumers. This is pushing the growth of the industry forward as cosmetics and food and beverage manufacturers are increasingly adopting natural ingredients like rosemary aromatic water to fulfil the rising consumer demand. Moreover, the demand for organic products is further increasing, which is supported by the rising disposable incomes, growing focus on wellness and beauty, and increasing preference for healthy foods. This is aiding the growth of the global rosemary aromatic water industry. Over the forecast period, the new product launches and increasing R&D activities are expected to significantly contribute to the industry growth.
