Report description:

The global terpineol market is being driven by the rising perfume and fragrances market. Aided by enhancing living standard, the perfume and fragrances market is expected to witness a healthy growth in the forecast period of 2025-2034, growing at a CAGR of 5.50%.

The North America Region is the Significant Market for Terpineol, Owing to Flourishing Flavours and Fragrances Industry

Region-wise, the North America region is a significant market for terpineol across the globe. This can be attributed to the flourishing flavours and fragrances industry in the United States. The region is expected to witness a moderate growth owing to the relatively matured industry in the region. The region is expected to be followed by the Asia Pacific in the terpineol industry during the forecast period. The market in the Asia Pacific region is led by factors, such as rapid urbanisation, enhancing living standards, and rising population. The region is anticipated to be followed by Europe over the forecast period because Europe has several major cosmetics and perfume manufacturing companies in the region. The Middle East and Africa, and Latin America hold a small share in the terpineol industry, globally.

Terpineol: Market Segmentation

The term terpineol represents monoterpene alcohol that can be isolated from several sources like cajuput oil, pine oil, petitgrain oil, and cannabis. Primarily, it is produced by the amalgamation of three isomers that consists of gamma-terpineol, beta-terpineol, and alpha-terpineol. The product exudes a pleasant odour, which is similar to lilac and is used as a key ingredient in cosmetics and perfumes. The product is also used in the production of bath products like cream, soaps, and lotions, among others.

On the basis of application, the market is divided into:
