Report description:

Based on the type, the Australia automotive financing market share is driven by new vehicle. The Australia automotive financing market is experiencing growth, as banks and financial institutions provide lower interest rates and reduced monthly payments for new vehicle financing. Manufacturers also provide deals and incentives on new vehicles such as zero-per-cent financing and warranties that cover repairs and maintenance for a certain period which makes new vehicle financing appealing and affordable to customers. Financing helps individuals spread out the cost of purchasing of new vehicle for a certain period while enjoying the benefits of a vehicle. Digitisation in the Australia automotive financing market streamlines the application process by offering online platforms for applications, approvals, and management making it convenient and accessible for individuals. They can easily go through the diverse financing products and customise them according to their needs through online platforms. They can go through the policy terms, interest rates and repayment options in one place. Individuals can easily make their monthly payments through digital platforms to avoid any delay. Bank Australia will cease their fossil fuels car loans from 2025 to support the shift towards a decarbonised economy as private passenger cars account for 62% of Australia's transport emissions.
