Report description:

Dragon fruits are widely purchased in supermarkets and hypermarkets by individuals due to their extensive reach, variety, and convenience. Supermarkets and hypermarkets are preferred by individuals for purchasing dragon fruit due to their diverse selection, prioritisation of freshness and quality, and convenience. Individuals can buy dragon fruit alongside their regular groceries during routine shopping trips, benefiting from the assurance of ethical sourcing and optimal storage conditions. These retail outlets offer a wide variety of dragon fruit options, catering to different preferences and dietary requirements, including organic choices thus stimulating the Australia dragon fruit market growth. Competitive pricing strategies implemented by supermarkets and hypermarkets make dragon fruit more affordable and through their promotional offers, discounts, and loyalty programs they attract individuals. The attractive and hygienic packaging, coupled with clear labelling and signage makes it easier for customers to make informed purchasing decisions. AgriFutures Australia and CQUniversity have entered into a partnership to boost Australia's budding dragon fruit industry by uniting growers, enhancing research capabilities, and fostering industry collaboration. Through an AgriFutures-funded initiative, CQUniversity led the establishment of the Australian Dragon Fruit Growers Association in 2021. Now, the association aims to expand its membership by recruiting additional growers.
