Report description:

Based on end use, team sports have been driving the Australia player tracking market growth. As per the Australia player tracking market analysis, player tracking tools and systems help in team sports by providing valuable data and insights to improve performance, strategy, and decision-making. It captures real-time data about players' positioning, movements, speed, and other performance metrics to assess team performance. The market value is increasing amid the growing focus to monitor players' and athlete's workloads and fatigue levels to reduce potential injury risks. According to the AusPlay survey, the most popular team sports were soccer and basketball with 1.2 million and 999,000 participants in 2020-21. The increasing number of tournaments and events has been driving the Australia player tracking market growth which increases the demand for player tracking solutions. Professional sports teams adopt player tracking solutions so that they identify their player's injury risks, manage workloads, and implement training and recovery programs to reduce the possibility of injuries and optimize players' health and longevity. The upcoming championships, tournaments, and events such as the 2025 ICF Canoe Slalom World Championships, 2026 BMX World Championships, 2027 Netball World Cup, 2027 Rugby World Cup and others will be boosting the Australia player tracking market.
