Key Highlights

Alecta Tjanstepension Omsesidigt is a Swedish occupational pension company founded in 1917. The company is headquartered at Regeringsgatan 107 in Stockholm, Sweden. Alecta operates primarily within Sweden, serving approximately 35000 companies under collectively agreed pension schemes, particularly the ITP plan for private sector salaried employees. The company's main business segment focuses on occupational pensions, offering retirement pensions, disability pensions, and survivors protection rather than retail life insurance. As a mutual company owned by its policyholders, Alecta manages substantial assets and invests in long term pension commitments. It places strong emphasis on financial stability, efficiency, and maintaining low fees for its customers. Through its sustainable investment approach and prudent management practices, Alecta continues to play a leading role in the Swedish pension market, ensuring long term security and value for its members and contributing to the stability of the national pension system.
