Key Highlights

Bank SinoPac Co Ltd is a leading financial institution headquartered in Taipei, Taiwan. The bank was officially established on January 28, 1992, and has since become a key player in Taiwan's banking industry. In 2006, Bank SinoPac was formed through a merger of equals between the original Bank SinoPac under SinoPac Holdings and the International Bank of Taipei, further strengthening its position in the market. This merger brought together two well-established entities, combining their expertise and resources to provide comprehensive financial services. The origins of one of its predecessor banks date back to 1948 with the inauguration of Taipei Mutual Loans and Savings Co., which was later restructured into Taipei Business Bank and then upgraded to International Bank of Taipei in 1998. International Bank of Taipei had built a solid customer base, focusing primarily on serving small and medium enterprises, before becoming a wholly owned subsidiary of SinoPac Holdings in 2005. Bank SinoPac itself has a history of financial product innovation and service integration, having merged with SinoPac Securities in 2002 to form SinoPac Holdings, under which it operates as a wholly owned subsidiary. Since the merger in 2006, Bank SinoPac has focused on streamlining its organizational structure, improving operational efficiency, and optimizing cost management to enhance overall performance. Strategic acquisitions and divestments, such as the integration of SinoPac Card Services and the sale of SinoPac Leasing, have been undertaken to strengthen capital adequacy and resource management within the SinoPac Group. Committed to its vision of "Together, a better life," Bank SinoPac aims to be the leading financial brand among Chinese-speaking communities by offering innovative products and excellent service through its extensive business network.
