Key Highlights

Coal India Limited, incorporated on November 1, 1975, is a state-owned enterprise under the Ministry of Coal, Government of India. Headquartered in Kolkata, India, the company stands as the largest coal-producing entity in the world. Its operations are central to India's energy sector, primarily engaged in the mining and production of coal and related products for use in power generation and industrial consumption. Operating within the mining and natural resources sector, Coal India Limited plays a pivotal role in meeting the country's energy requirements, supplying the majority of coal used by thermal power plants across India. The company manages a vast network of subsidiaries and mining operations, including both open-cast and underground mines, spread across eight states in India. While its primary market is domestic, Coal India's influence is regional, with limited exports to neighboring countries in South Asia and partnerships supporting broader energy cooperation in Asia. With a strategic focus on increasing production efficiency and embracing sustainable mining practices, Coal India continues to underpin India's energy infrastructure. Its extensive workforce and critical role in national development make it a cornerstone of the Indian economy and a significant player in the global coal industry.
