Key Highlights

HAL Trust, founded in 1977, is the central holding structure that owns all outstanding shares of HAL Holding N.V. and provides long term continuity for the group's global investment activities. Based in Rotterdam, The Netherlands, the Trust anchors a diversified international portfolio managed through HAL Holding N.V., which operates across sectors such as optical retail, maritime and offshore services, real estate, energy related assets and other long term strategic investments. Through this structure, HAL Trust supports a broad global presence, with operations and portfolio companies active across Europe, North America and other international markets. The Trust functions under an Anglo American style trust arrangement, where governance is shared between the Meeting of Shareholders, the Trustee and the Trust Committee. The Meeting of Trust Shareholders forms the primary decision making body, while the Trustee executes decisions and represents the Trust at the General Meeting of HAL Holding N.V. The Trust Committee, located in Bermuda, holds special authority to reorganize assets or adjust the corporate structure during exceptional circumstances to protect shareholder and enterprise interests. This framework ensures strong stewardship, operational continuity and a stable foundation for HAL's long term investment philosophy.
